

Journal of Integrative Agriculture

Instruction to Authors

Description Journal of Integrative Agriculture (JIA), formerly Agricultural Sciences in China (ASC), founded in 2002, is sponsored by Chinese Academy of Agricultural Sciences (CAAS), co-sponsored by Chinese Association of Agricultural Science Societies (CAASS). JIA is a peer-reviewed and multi-disciplinary international journal and published monthly in English. JIA Editorial Board consists of 275 well-respected scholars of agricultural scientific fields. CAAS President, Academician TANG Hua-jun is the Chairman of the Board, and CAAS Vice President, Academician WAN Jian-min is the Editor-in-Chief. JIA has been published by Elsevier B.V. since 2006 and is a leading academic journal in agricultural sciences in China. As released by JCR, the latest IF of the journal is 1.337.

Published articles of JIA are available both in print and electronic copies. The electronic full texts are available on ScienceDirect (<http://www.sciencedirect.com/science/journal/20953119>).

Mission JIA promotes research and exchange of novel scientific discoveries and ideas for the advancement of agricultural sciences. The journal emphasizes inter-disciplinary and systematic approaches addressing agricultural life science, agricultural sustainability, food science, agricultural environment, ecology and energy, therefore to concern for human health and development around the globe.

Aims & Scope JIA seeks to publish those papers that are influential and will significantly advance scientific understanding in agriculture fields worldwide. JIA publishes manuscripts in the five categories focusing on the core subjects listed below.

Peer Review This journal operates a double-blind review process. All contributions will be initially assessed by the Managing editor and Section editor for suitability for the journal. Papers deemed suitable are then sent to a minimum of two independent expert reviewers to assess the scientific quality of the paper. The Section editor is responsible for the decision regarding acceptance or rejection of articles. More information on types of peer review.

Categories

Commentary is a platform to exchange viewpoints, praise and criticism each other in the agricultural science community. Authors may submit comments in regard to the contents published previously in JIA or bring up other issues that may be of interest and relevant to JIA. Commentary will appear at the beginning of the issue with no abstract or keywords.

Review describes new development and highlight future directions of a specialized or interdisciplinary significance in agriculture sciences. They should be focused on providing insights and summary/context on the published findings and introducing some new concepts or viewpoints for solving the important unresolved questions by presenting the research background, approach, and outlook of the field. Only invited reviews are considered.

Research Article presents important new research results through reproducible experimental design, using genetic, biochemical, cell and molecular biological methods, statistical analyses, and other scientific methods.

Short Communication is for a concise, but independent report representing a significant contribution to agriculture sciences. It is intended to publish these results that are exceptional interest and particularly topical and relevant, but the preliminary results. It should be limited to 2 500 words, and could include no more than two figures or tables.

Letter discusses materials published in JIA previously or issues of general interest. It should be no more than 400 words.

Submission of a manuscript implies that the submitted work has not been published before (except as part of a thesis or lecture note or report, or in the form of an abstract); that it is not under consideration for publication elsewhere; that its publication has been approved by all co-authors as well as by the authorities at the institute where the work has been carried out; that, if and when the manuscript is accepted for publication, the authors hand over the transferable copyrights of the accepted manuscript to CAAS, and that the manuscript or parts thereof will thus not be published elsewhere in any language without the consent of the copyright holder. Copyrights include, without spatial or timely limitation, the mechanical, electronic and visual reproduction and distribution; electronic storage and retrieval; and all other forms of electronic publication or any other types of publication including all subsidiary rights.

Acceptance The acceptance of a paper implies that it has been reviewed and recommended by at least two reviewers and the Executive Editor-in-Chief. The Editor-in-Chief's decision is final. Authors will generally be notified of acceptance, rejection, or need for revision within two months of receipt. The accepted papers will be published in a chronological order. It's prohibited to add or change author(s) and affiliation(s) once the manuscript has been accepted. All authors are required to provide institutional e-mails.

Submission An electronic file of a manuscript with original figures, along with a cover letter to the editors, should be submitted online to JIA by accessing <http://www.ChinaAgriSci.com>. All submitted manuscripts will undergo the plagiarism checking via the Crossref Similarity Check. And for any question involved, Potential reviewers Authors are encouraged to provide a list of potential reviewers. Reviewers must not be subject to a conflict of interest involving the author(s) or manuscript(s). The editors of JIA are not obligated to use any reviewer suggested by the author(s).

Creating the manuscript Microsoft Word files are required for all manuscripts. Generally, the manuscript should be arranged in the following sections and appear in order: Title page (with author details): This should include the title, authors' names and affiliations, and a complete address for the corresponding author including an e-mail address.

Blinded manuscript (no author details): The main body of the paper (including the references, figures, tables and any acknowledgements) should not include any identifying information, such as the authors' names or affiliations. This file should have Abstract and Keywords, Introduction, Materials and methods, Results, Discussion, Conclusion, Acknowledgements, and References.

All manuscripts must be written in clear and grammatically correct English. Scientific language, nomenclature and standard international units should be used.

Acknowledgements should be a brief statement at the end of the text and may include source of financial support. The contract No. should be provided.

References Author-year citations are required (e.g., Crews and Davies 1986; Cataldo et al. 1983; Smith 2000, 2002). Reference to unpublished data and personal communication should not appear in the list but should be cited in the text only (e.g., Clarke J M 2015, personal communication; Wang G P 2017, unpublished data). In the reference list, the following examples are for guidance.

Tables should be numbered consecutively and accompanied by a title at the top.

Illustrations Do not use figures that duplicate matter in tables. Figures can be supplied in digital format, or photographs and drawings, which can be ready, or with source data, for reproduction. Label each figure with figure number consecutively. Figure legends should be grouped on a separate page. Authors can publish colour photos, figures, or maps at their own expense.

Proofs will be sent to the corresponding author by e-mail as PDF files for checking and correcting of typographical errors. To avoid delay in publication, proofs should be returned in 72 hours.

Free providing Two copies of the printed journal will be provided to authors free of charge.

Publishing fee of CNY600 per page for the first 10 pages, CNY650 per page for subsequent pages, and CNY1500 per color plate will be charged for all the manuscripts accepted. No charge for B/W figures. The handling fee of CNY300 is charged for each paper.

Open Access fee JIA is a fully Open Access (OA) journal on ScienceDirect and all the accepted articles are published OA. The OA fee could be covered by JIA (CAAS) via author's applying a waiver when submitting a paper.

Reprints may be purchased by ordering in advance when sending back the proof by e-mail as CNY2 for each copy.
