Additional Information

Preparation

Article structure
Subdivision - numbered sections
Divide your article into clearly defined and numbered sections. Subsections should be numbered 1.1 (then 1.1.1, 1.1.2, ...), 1.2, etc. (the abstract is not included in section numbering). Use this numbering also for internal cross-referencing: do not just refer to "the text". Any subsection may be given a brief heading. Each heading should appear on its own separate line.

Introduction
State the objectives of the work and provide an adequate background, avoiding a detailed literature survey or a summary of the results.

Material and methods
Provide sufficient detail to allow the work to be reproduced. Methods already published should be indicated by a reference: only relevant modifications should be described.

Theory/calculation
A Theory section should extend, not repeat, the background to the article already dealt with in the Introduction and lay the foundation for further work. In contrast, a Calculation section represents a practical development from a theoretical basis.

Results and discussion
Results should be clear and concise. Discussion should explore the significance of the results of the work, not repeat them. A combined Results and Discussion section is often appropriate. Avoid extensive citations and discussion of published literature.

Conclusions
The main conclusions of the study may be presented in a short Conclusions section, which may stand alone or form a subsection of a Discussion or Results and Discussion section.
Essential title page information

• Title. Concise and informative. Titles are often used in information-retrieval systems. Avoid abbreviations and formulae where possible.

• Author names and affiliations. Information including name(s) of authors(s) (family name first). his/her/their affiliation, city, postcode, and country should be provided. Clearly indicate who will handle correspondence at all stages of refereeing and publication, also post-publication. Ensure that telephone and fax numbers (with country and area code) are provided in addition to the e-mail address and the complete postal address.

Abstract

A concise and factual abstract is required. The abstract should state briefly the purpose of the research, methods/materials/process, contents, the principal results and major conclusions. An abstract is often presented separately from the article, so it must be able to stand alone. For this reason, References should be avoided, but if essential, then cite the author(s) and year(s). Also, non-standard or uncommon abbreviations should be avoided, but if essential they must be defined at their first mention in the abstract itself.

Keywords

Authors are invited to submit keywords associated with their paper. 3-6 key words should be provided.

Acknowledgements

Place acknowledgements, including information on grants received, before the references, in a separate section, and not as a footnote on the title page.

Nomenclature and units

Follow internationally accepted rules and conventions: use the international system of units (SI). If other quantities are mentioned, give their equivalent in SI. Authors wishing to present a table of nomenclature should do so on the second page of their manuscript.

Math formulae

Equations and formulae should be clearly typed with the subscripts and superscripts clearly shown and numbered consecutively.
Footnotes

Footnotes should provide the following information: 1) dates of the manuscript received and accepted; 2) telephone number and E-mail address of the first author or the corresponding author.

Figures and tables

Photographs, charts and diagrams are all to be referred to as "Figure(s)". Figures should be understandable and clear. Both figures and tables should be numbered consecutively, have descriptive captions, and be mentioned in the text. In addition, they should be inserted in proper position in the main text. The three-line tables are preferred.

References

Only journal articles, monograph, dissertation, proceedings, standards, patent, and/or electronic publication can be cited and consecutively numbered by Arabic numerals in text, which should be listed in the same order as cited in text. Usually, at least 20 references are required. For journals: name of author(s) (family name first, and all the authors’ names should be listed), title of paper, name of journal, year, volume(No.): pages. For books: name of author(s), title of book, city: publishing house, year. For proceedings: name of author(s), title of paper, In: title of Proceedings, city: publishing house, year. For dissertations: name of author(s), title of dissertation, city: university, year. For patents: name of author(s), title of patent, country: patent No., date. References published in non-English language (for example Chinese) should be translated into English and noted by "(In Chinese)", etc.
